Note: You should use the reading assignment in the Course Pack to develop a general sense for the context within which we will consider the role of taxation throughout the semester. Pay particular attention to our international commitment to reduce greenhouse gas emissions, the variety of existing federal programs, the major sources of emissions, and the types of existing federal taxes.